

The Parade

Jack: Welcome to News Channel 6, where we're on-site and about to watch this year's Independence Day parade. I'm your reporter, Jack Straight, along with my associate Cal Riptick. Cal, are you excited for the parade?

Cal: Average fruit drink for March.

Jack: Um, well, I never really understand you, as you can see from that example, but... it's good we work so well together. So, anyways, let's get started. Coming up, we see Scout Troop 6 marching down the road. Cal?

Cal: Warlord uses shotgun heartlessly.

Jack: That's odd. Ok. Next, I see we have a rally of 6 classic cars. Aren't they beautiful, Cal?

Cal: Most wise around stages.

Jack: Get lost! Um, well, now I see Engine Station 9's new hook-and-ladder truck. What do you think of that, Cal?

Cal: He said "a quip" meant some gear.

Jack: Capital! Ah, I hear the marching band from District 7 coming around the turn. Sound great, don't they, Cal?

Cal: Desktop is a promise to deny.

Jack: Extremely! Well, keep looking, because the police from Precinct 7 are coming along in their shiny cruisers. Cal?

Cal: Can't, but worthy of mention.

Jack: Right at the heart of it! I see the local militia unit 5 is coming up next.

Cal: Rome had nothing for a star-crossed lover.

Jack: So they say in the military. Bringing up the rear is EMT Station 8's new ambulance. What do you think, Cal?

Cal: Ginger performed but was blocked.

Jack: Finally! Well, I guess that's everything folks. Hope you get what Cal and I are saying. Have a safe and happy holiday... signing off!
